UN Assembly Chief meets His Majesty ✕

The current president of the United Nations General Assembly visited Oman this week and held talks with His Majesty the Sultan.

Mr Salim Ahmed al Salim is Tanzania's permanent representative at the U.N., will remain in office as assembly president until September. He was the presiding officer of the recent debate on the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

He said he discussed "the present international situation" with His Majesty.

"Our discussions covered subjects in connection with the situation in Afghanistan, the international situation was covered and also African and Arab co-operation."

This is the first time he has visited Oman and among the senior officials and Ministers he met was Qais Abdulmunim al Zawawi, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs.

He also went to Salalah and flew to Nizwa. After Oman he will call in on Kuwait, the U.A.E. and Qatar.
